

Delaware
Public Archives
...your window to the past!

The Delaware Public Archives is one of Delaware's most exciting and unique attractions! There's something for everyone: modern resources for conducting historical research, instructional workshops and lectures addressing genealogy, photograph preservation, and Delaware history, and interactive exhibit galleries designed to engage the entire family!

You can try your hand at signing the Bill of Rights, learn how Delaware really became The First State, and discover the hidden history of Pirates, Wolves, and Sailing Ships!

Inside the Mabel Lloyd Ridgely Research Room, you can research your own family genealogy or delve deep into Delaware's earliest historical records! Visitors can examine birth, marriage, and death records, maps, deed books, and court dockets, ranging from the 1650s to today! Or you can explore over half-a-million historical photographs that bring hometown history alive!

Do you have the write stuff?

John Has

Touch the Screen with the Stylus to Begin

STATE OF THE ART RESEARCH FACILITY

OVER HALF A MILLION HISTORICAL PHOTOGRAPHS

INTERACTIVE EXHIBIT GALLERIES

121 Duke of York St.
Dover, Delaware 19901
(302) 744 - 5000
www.archives.state.de.us

Discover Delaware's Capital

The State

