

FRIENDS OF THE DELAWARE ARCHIVES

The Friends of the Delaware Archives (FODA) was formed in 1995 as a private, non-profit organization to support The Delaware Public Archives.

What does FODA do?

- Provides citizens with a collective voice for preserving records & works to ensure the appropriate accessibility.
- Raises awareness of the content and value of the Archives & solicits donations to enhance its holdings and operation.
- Sponsors educational programs pertaining to the Archives.
- Administers the Harold Hancock Research Fellowship for projects that make use of the Archives.
- Supports efforts to help the Archives carry out its mission of preserving and interpreting records of enduring value.

How can you help?

- Become an active member of FODA.
- Tell your friends about the resources of the Archives and what FODA is doing. Encourage them to join!
- Donate appropriate books or money to enhance the resources of the Delaware Public Archives.
